

“We are working hard to bring new industry to Mississippi as well as keep existing industries. When a business does close its doors, we will work even harder to help the displaced workers make the transition to new jobs.”