

Governor Musgrove and members of his staff helped build a Habitat house in Jackson this past January.

The Governor helped build the entry stairs on the back of the house while others cleaned, primed, caulked and painted the interior of the house.

We worked hand in hand with our neighbors, getting to know them as we built this home for Carla and her family.

“I believe my staff and I are getting more out of volunteering than the homeowner will ever realize. It feels good to know that we have helped our neighbor today” said the Governor.

Just think how many things we can change if we volunteer. “We can create the opportunity for people across the state to have a better quality of life,” said the Governor
