(Jackson, MS) – Governor Ronnie Musgrove has appointed J. Brooks Miller, Sr., of Hazlehurst, as the Mississippi State Aid Road Engineer. Miller will serve through January 21, 2006.

“I am proud to know Brooks Miller will be working for Mississippi,” Musgrove said. “His experience and knowledge in working as a District Engineer with the Office of State Aid Road Construction will be invaluable as he takes this position. I look forward to working with him.”

Miller has worked as a District Engineer since 1980. He graduated from Mississippi State University with a degree in civil engineering, and also holds an associate degree from Copiah-Lincoln Junior College.

Prior to working at State Aid Road Construction, he served as the County Engineer for Copiah County.

Miller and his wife, Marsha, have three children.
