Governor Musgrove Proclaims “National Women’s Health Week”

(Jackson, MS) – Governor Ronnie Musgrove has proclaimed the week of May 11, 2003 as “National Women’s Health Week” to celebrate the extraordinary progress in women’s health.

“Women’s health remains a priority for families, communities, and government, and our commitment to keeping women healthy is strong,” Musgrove stated.

Women from all walks of life and at every stage of life have unique health needs that should be addressed in their own right. National Women’s Health Week recognizes that more needs to be done to safeguard the health of women for generations to come.
