

GOVERNOR'S DAILY NEWS SUMMARY

Tuesday, September 10, 2002

Clarion Ledger Jackson

Standstill persists over tort reform

Chemical plant cleanup debated

AFL-CIO enters WorldCom fray

Editorials

Special session: Lawmakers too close to call it quits

Fleeing faculty: Education funding must be priority

Death Row: Inmates don't get much sympathy

The Sun Herald Biloxi

Session enters sixth day with no civil justice solution

Tort reform session may be dead

Northeast Mississippi Daily Journal Tupelo

Senate negotiators still insist on discussing general civil justice

EDITORIAL: Amy Tuck and solons refuse special session cooperation

The Commercial Appeal Memphis, TN

Tort reform push in Mississippi aligning Tuck with Republicans

Hattiesburg American

Meridian Star

Musgrove to focus on jobs, economic development

State needs to improve students' reading proficiency

- On tort reform

Laurel Leader-Call

Stalemate continues at Capitol over civil justice reforms

DeSoto Times Today Hernando

The Clarksdale Press Register

Clarksdale family takes tort reform argument to Jackson

The Bolivar Commercial Cleveland

SPECIAL SESSION: It's about the government we have

Enterprise Journal McComb

Special session bogs down due to tort reform

Emily Wagster: Budgets tighter in other states

The Natchez Democrat

Read Our View

The Greenwood Commonwealth

Stalemate continues over civil justice bill

House trying to gut tort reform

Musgrove stubborn beyond reason

Mississippi Business Journal

Magnolia Report

MagnoliaReport.com: Conservative House members request expansion;

Governor refuses; House holds to weak plan; Senate refuses to buckle

Summit: Haley Barbour says economic development a team sport

Stateline.org

The New York Times

The Washington Post

The Washington Times