Natchez Literary and Cinema Celebration

Author Greg Iles, recipient of the Richard Wright Literary Excellence Award, with his family, wife Dr. Carrie Iles, daughter Madeline and son Mark.

The 15th Annual Natchez Literary and Cinema Celebration (NLCC) was held in February with the theme "Scoundrels to Statesmen: Politics in the Deep South." Prior to the event, the National Endowment for the Humanities awarded the NLCC a $100,000 matching grant to help finance the award-winning programs. Plans have begun to raise the matching funds. In addition, Mississippi Public Broadcasting became a fourth sponsor. At the NLCC's Awards Night, Natchez author Greg Iles and University of Mississippi Professor Dr. William K. Scarborough received the Richard Wright Literary Excellence Award, while screenwriter Gail Gilchriest from Los Angeles earned the Horton Foote Award for Outstanding Screenplay Writing.

Other community arts events held on the Natchez Campus in 2003-2004 included the final Colinwood Renaissance Faire, the first "Sounds of Co-Lin" concert which features Co-Lin students, staff and alumni; "Portrait of Peru" photography exhibit by Spanish instructor Linda Royals Flynn, a collection of her pictures including the Andes Mountains and the Amazon region; and the first Judith Sargent Murray Lecture featuring Dr. Kevin Bales, the world's foremost authority on the topic of slavery in today's economy. He is a visiting professor at the Croft Institute for International Studies at the University of Mississippi and is also a professor of sociology at the Roehampton Institute in London.

Copiah-Lincoln Community College's Community Arts Series, music department, concertgoers and musical enthusiasts on campus and across the state are ringing with excitement over the fact that the Wesson campus is now the proud new home of a brand new Steinway Concert Grand Piano.

The Steinway concert grand piano, a nine-foot piano whose make is known as the largest and best piano for concerts in the United States, arrived after a long process of preparation, fundraising and selection.

The piano is the pride and joy of a music department that has finally realized a dream that began several years ago.

"It is such an exquisite instrument," said Joan Harris, Community Arts Series chairman, "and we are so happy to have one on our campus."

The list price for such a quality instrument is

$95,000. Money was raised for its purchase by several benefactors who made both sizeable and smaller donations, many of them helping by purchasing one of the Steinway's ivory keys. The largest donation, however, was given by the late Fred Taylor of Oxford, a former student and generous contributor to the Copiah-Lincoln Foundation who passed away shortly after donating $45,000 for the piano.

Harris traveled to New York City with John Allegrezza and Charles Wroten of the Allegrezza Piano Company in Jackson in December to select the piano. Randall Atcheson, concert pianist from Connecticut who has performed at Co-Lin, met and assisted Harris and the piano dealers with the purchase.

The first public performance of the Steinway was made by 2001 Van Cliburn International Piano Competition Gold Medalist Olga Kern as part of the 2003-2004 Aficionado Subscription Series. Ms. Kern is a wildly popular piano virtuoso from Moscow, Russia.

The 15th Annual Natchez Literary and Cinema Celebration (NLCC) was held in February with the theme "Scoundrels to Statesmen: Politics in the Deep South." Prior to the event, the National Endowment for the Humanities awarded the NLCC a $100,000 matching grant to help finance the award-winning programs. Plans have begun to raise the matching funds. In addition, Mississippi Public Broadcasting became a fourth sponsor. At the NLCC's Awards Night, Natchez author Greg Iles and University of Mississippi Professor Dr. William K. Scarborough received the Richard Wright Literary Excellence Award, while screenwriter Gail Gilchriest from Los Angeles earned the Horton Foote Award for Outstanding Screenplay Writing.

Other community arts events held on the Natchez Campus in 2003-2004 included the final Colinwood Renaissance Faire, the first "Sounds of Co-Lin" concert which features Co-Lin students, staff and alumni; "Portrait of Peru" photography exhibit by Spanish instructor Linda Royals Flynn, a collection of her pictures including the Andes Mountains and the Amazon region; and the first Judith Sargent Murray Lecture featuring Dr. Kevin Bales, the world's foremost authority on the topic of slavery in today's economy. He is a visiting professor at the Croft Institute for International Studies at the University of Mississippi and is also a professor of sociology at the Roehampton Institute in London.

Copiah-Lincoln Community College's Community Arts Series, music department, concertgoers and musical enthusiasts on campus and across the state are ringing with excitement over the fact that the Wesson campus is now the proud new home of a brand new Steinway Concert Grand Piano.

The Steinway concert grand piano, a nine-foot piano whose make is known as the largest and best piano for concerts in the United States, arrived after a long process of preparation, fundraising and selection.

The piano is the pride and joy of a music department that has finally realized a dream that began several years ago.

"It is such an exquisite instrument," said Joan Harris, Community Arts Series chairman, "and we are so happy to have one on our campus."

The list price for such a quality instrument is

$95,000. Money was raised for its purchase by several benefactors who made both sizeable and smaller donations, many of them helping by purchasing one of the Steinway's ivory keys. The largest donation, however, was given by the late Fred Taylor of Oxford, a former student and generous contributor to the Copiah-Lincoln Foundation who passed away shortly after donating $45,000 for the piano.

Harris traveled to New York City with John Allegrezza and Charles Wroten of the Allegrezza Piano Company in Jackson in December to select the piano. Randall Atcheson, concert pianist from Connecticut who has performed at Co-Lin, met and assisted Harris and the piano dealers with the purchase.
