

It's tough to see this kind of devastation, especially during the holiday season. We're thankful there were no fatalities, and I want to commend the civil defense and emergency management workers for their quick response. I issued a state of emergency soon after the tornado hit to open up state resources and begin the rebuilding process asap.